

MATTHEW ROSENBERG

Chief Revenue Officer

Matthew Rosenberg started at NetNumber in 2008 and serves as the company's Chief Revenue Office. Rosenberg brings more than 25 years of experience in sales executive positions in the telecom, software services and content distribution industries. An experienced leader, he has built and managed high-performing, multi-national teams across sales, services, delivery and field solutions divisions in almost all regions of the world.

Prior to joining NetNumber, Rosenberg held senior executive sales roles at NexTech, Forgent Networks, and Adero. He also was co-founder and COO of VCinema, an early entrant in the video-on-demand industry. Rosenberg started his career with Fax International, a value-add telecom service provider delivering private IP-fax solutions to international enterprises.

As CRO for NetNumber, Rosenberg is primarily responsible for end-to-end management and growth of all revenues into NetNumber, while driving global sales, services and delivery.

Rosenberg brings deep knowledge of the telecom software industry, including complex solutions sales expertise, building delivery and service teams, and driving organic and inorganic revenue for high-growth companies.

Rosenberg holds a BA degree from the University of Massachusetts. Truly international, he has lived in seven countries, travelled to more than 70, and speaks a range of languages.

Rosenberg is a frequent speaker at telecom industry conferences around the globe.